

Within Your Grasp

I like it
when you
hold

my heart
in your hands
like a

hummingbird
wings beating
frantically

against soft petals
that are your fingertips

but I am afraid of becoming caged

by the strength
of your affections

held so tightly
against your breast

that my wings
can no longer
flutter